

Middle School Head
St. Andrew's Episcopal School
Austin, Texas

Opening for Fall, 2009

St. Andrew's Episcopal School, a coeducational, college preparatory, independent day school, has announced the opening for a Middle School Head whose responsibilities will begin with the 2009-2010 school year. St. Andrew's ({ HYPERLINK "http://www.sasaustin.org" }) is one of Austin, Texas' top independent schools, enrolling approximately 830 students in grades 1 through 12 on its two campuses. The Middle School, grades 7 and 8, includes approximately 140 students and 40 faculty members. Located with the Lower School on the school's original downtown Austin campus, the Middle School enjoys a beautiful, new, state-of-the-art 30,300 sq. ft. facility.

For this important leadership position, the school seeks a person with successful administrative and teaching experience, preferably in another Episcopal/independent school; an appreciation for the school's Episcopal identity; an enthusiasm for working with students at the Middle School level; the ability to inspire and guide a talented team of teaching professionals; excellent communication skills; an interest in being highly visible in the life of the division and the school; and the personal skills to interact easily and effectively with students, parents, faculty and administration.

To learn more about this opportunity, please contact:

Mary E. Kesler, Search Consultant

The Education Group

800 -369-9102 or { HYPERLINK "mailto:mary@educationgroup.com" } }

A letter of interest, resume, philosophy for a successful Middle School program/administrator, and a list of 5 references should be sent to the above contact at the earliest possible date and by no later than January 15, 2008. Candidate materials will be reviewed as received.

St. Andrew's Episcopal School is an Equal Opportunity Employer.